

Sinclair Broadcasting's decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary days before the election is a clear example of the dangers of media consolidation.

Sinclair uses the public airwaves free of charge, and is obligated by law to serve the public interest. This use of the airwaves to pass off personal opinion as news is a terrible use of the public airwaves. It is time to get back to local ownership of media. It is time to strengthen, not weaken media ownership laws.
